Amend paragraph 71. New text is underlined and deleted text is struck through.

Comparison of prospective financial statements with actual financial results is an essential element of accountability. In the case of FMC reporting entities issuers a comparison of actual financial results against the originally published statements is important because it provides users with a comparison of actual performance with the projected performance at the time the entity raised funds. Some entities provide long-term prospective financial statements which are updated annually, prior to the beginning of the year. In such cases a comparison of actual financial results with the most recent prospective financial statements published prior to the beginning of the period is generally relevant. Where information is revised during the course of a year, the reasons for revising the information and an explanation of the differences between the originally published prospective financial statements and the historical financial statements should be given.

 - (c) summary financial information such as a trend statement provided in an annual report or a product disclosure statement or a disclosure document prospectus that includes key financial indicators taken from the entity's financial statements;

Some entities provide long-term prospective financial statements which are updated annually, prior to the beginning of the year. In such cases a comparison of actual financial results with the most recent prospective financial statements published prior to the beginning of the period is generally relevant. Where information is revised during the course of a year, the reasons for revising the information and an explanation of the differences between the originally published prospective financial statements and the historical financial statements should be given.
